We are a forward-looking Business School with international reach and research strengths in a range of areas. The School has successfully developed the level and standard of its research in the REF 2014, which has allowed us to submit more than 70% of our research active staff, building on a base of more than half of the School's research activity (67%) being classified as 'world leading/internationally excellent' (3* and 4*).

Kent Business School's overall GPA weighted ranking positions the School at 32 in the UK for business and management studies, with 76% of research submitted by Kent Business School gaining the top 3 or 4-star rating for its impact, deeming it either 'outstanding' or 'very considerable' with wide ranging impacts on society, the economy, culture, health and welfare, public policy and the environment.

Our strategic priority is to continue to develop the School's research and impact by appointing new, especially senior, staff and through developing the potential of our current staff. We expect our senior faculty to be enthusiastic and entrepreneurial research leaders who set an example for colleagues throughout the School.

The School's research portfolio is currently focussed around six subject areas:

- Accounting
- Finance
- Management Science (including Operations Research & Information Systems)
- Marketing
- Strategy and International Business
- People, Management and Organisation

We encourage collaboration across groups and welcome the contributions of new faculty members to take an active role in shaping the research agenda in the subjects as well as cross-cutting themes, such as sustainability, innovation and enterprise. We are keen to collaborate across disciplines and subject areas with a view to demonstrate impact. Where appropriate we seek to complement our strengths by actively developing partnerships inside and outside the University. The School is also keen to increase its research and consultancy income – an area to which the new post holder is expected to make a contribution.
